

My fellow woodcarvers,
Since fall is fast approaching-dust off those unfinished carvings or start new ones. At this time of year there are many changes to come... fall colors...frost- then the real carving begins. All the cold and snow and heating bills. Let's get those piles of chips growing for the fire we need.

Leo.... Mr. President

Carving Demonstration at Bushnell Park Carousel 105th birthday celebration

Have you ever wondered about the thought processes and carving techniques that were used in the creation of your favorite carousel horse or wooden sculpture? Wonder no more! Join Leo Hein, President of the Connecticut Wood Carvers Association during our next Museum: After Hours presentation on Thursday September 12th for a “conceptual show and tell”, a discussion on how a carving evolves from a sketch to a finished product. Using a variety of subjects including a full-sized carousel horse head, Leo will share his creative processes and the techniques used to make some of his beautiful carvings a reality. This presentation is included with general admission and is free for Museum members; wine and snacks will also be served.
